

GEN103 Audio-Video and Control System Networking Online

The Audio-Video and Control System Networking Online course was created to help the AV professional prepare for the impact of convergence of information technology (IT) and AV technology. There are many computer networking courses and certification programs available. This course provides the link between courses on computer networking and its application to AV industry applications.

 Register

Audience

This course is designed by AV and IT professionals for AV professionals in sales, design, installation or rental.

Renewal Units

 CTS: 15 CTS-D: 15 CTS-I: 15 Max: 15

Course Content ()

Includes the basics of networking such as network architecture, standards and terminology, and more advanced concepts such as network topology and IP addressing. The course covers:

- an introduction to AV networks
- AV networking displays
- control
- designing a network infrastructure
- building the infrastructure
- common network protocols

Copyright 2011 InfoComm International